A legislation is required to stop more and more people suffering everyday from domestic abuse everyday as the service like police whom are trained with domestic abuse cases and still there are so many abusers getting away with what they do to there victims and it's not right as a victim myself I think that when I went through what I did there wasn't enough done in regards to the abuse.

no overall change in costs

I don't see how this law would impact costs on anything and if it did it's a cost the country should pay to protect people from domestic abuse as there is too many including myself who's cases have went unnoticed and I'll suffer now because I cannot do anything now about it but if this law was in place I would have received the right care but I wasn't so for the future of our children and family grandchildren I would feel safer if this come into law as my daughter also suffers from seeing this also.
